the Netherlands

The global start of the International Volunteer Year will take place in one of the most beautiful and interesting cities in the world.

When you hand in the enclosed form, you will receive a typically Dutch courtesy present at the 2001 stand in the lobby of the Jubilee Auditorium.

We shall then send you the brochure including registration form to keep you posted on this unique World Conference.

a special World Conference,
a royal opening,
a spectacular closing ceremony

The IAVE World Conference in Amsterdam with the main theme:

Youth, The Future Of Voluntary Work,

will mark the start of the International Volunteer Year and it will focus worldwide (political) attention on voluntary work. The year 2001 has been proclaimed the International Volunteer Year by the United Nations.

It's going to be a exceptional conference.

Among other prominent figures, Queen Beatrix of the Netherlands and the Secretary General of the United Nations will be invited to the opening ceremony.

At the closing ceremony, a final document will be signed: renowned politicians and former politicians, and youth idols from the world of sports, music, film and television will be asked to sign this final document, either on the spot or via satellite.

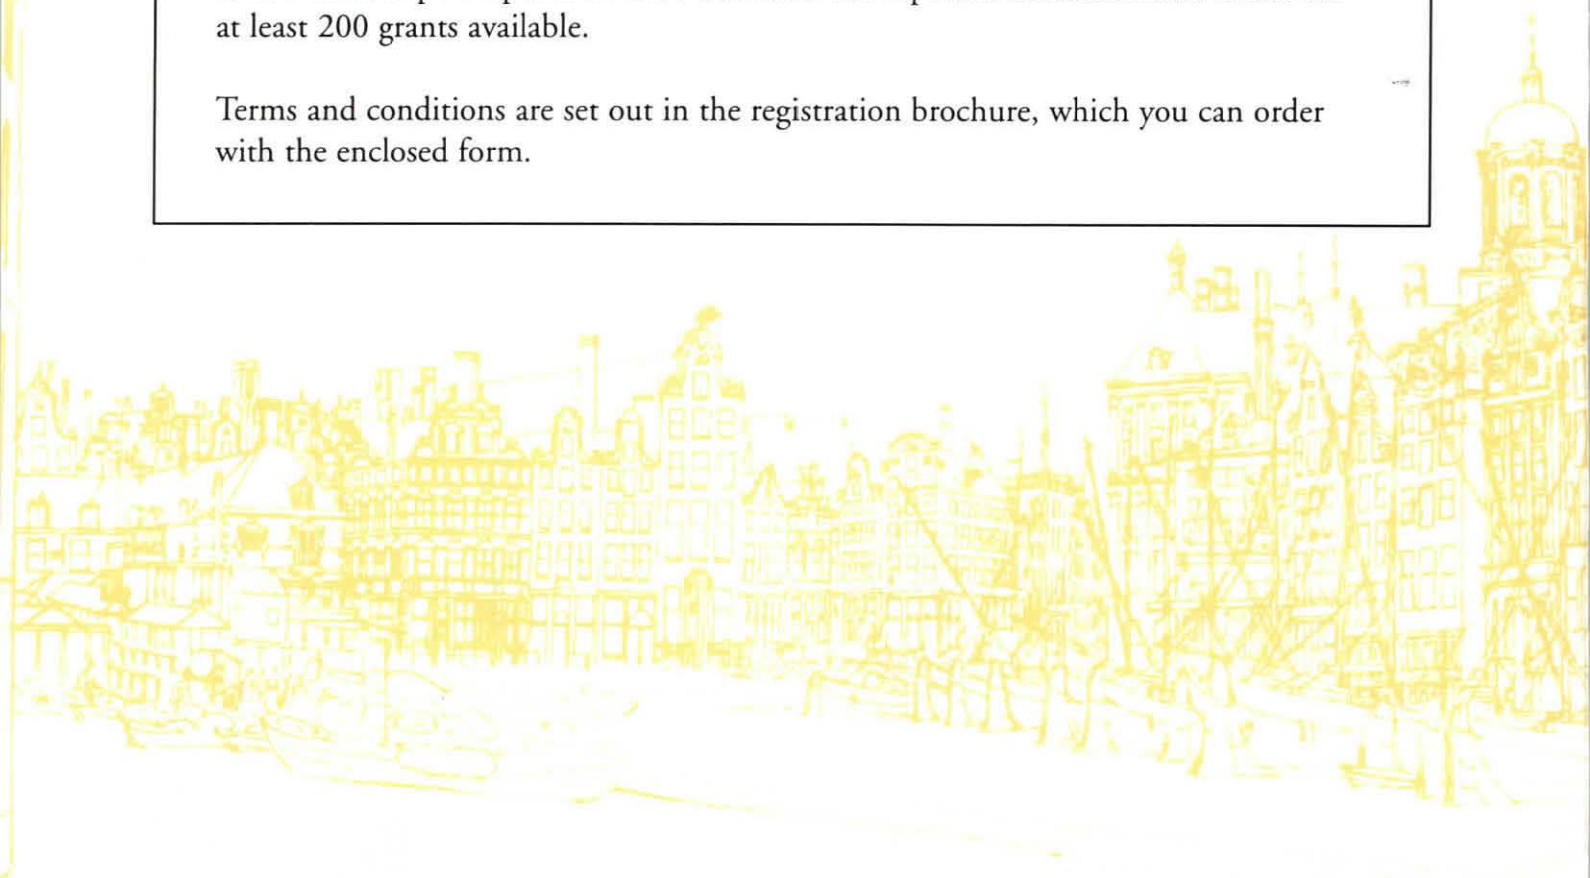

The message?

To call on governments and organizations to step up efforts to invest in voluntary work.

At least 200 grants

One thousand participants from 75 countries are expected in Amsterdam. There are at least 200 grants available.

Terms and conditions are set out in the registration brochure, which you can order with the enclosed form.
